Teday is the last chance to see the Romany Trio, and the fine bill at the Abriltorium the last three days of this week, and for lovers of good singing an exceptional treat is offered.

The shows presented at this popular house the past weeks have been their own advertisement, and the bill for Monday is headed by what is positively one of the highest priced acts that has ever played Norwich or any town of its size. The act is entitled La Petite Revue, and is composed of seven clever people who are all nigh class comedians and vocalists. Special settings and electrical effects are carried, making this a complete production. This act is not like any other act in vandeville. It is a production by Mr. Lovenberg, who is general manager of B. F. Keith's enterprises, and specially composed music and sons specially composed music and songs are one feature that is original. ## BREED THEATER.

Strongest Bill of Sensational Pictures of the Season.

All of the great favorites of the more important picture casts are represent-ed in the progress of pictures at the ed in the progress of pictures at the Breed today, commending with the exquisitely beautiful home story of Her Grandchild, by the Vitagraph company, in whach appears Mrs. Mary Maurice and Dolores and Maurice Costello. This is one of those picture-poems that possesses the faculty of reaching the hearts of all who see it, and tells its story, leaving the beautiful moral in the minds of all. Then there is the western feature by the Essanay cast, telling of the pluck and wiscom of a little woman whose daring outwitted and captured the slayer of her husband and the robber of her home. Truly, this is a remarkable picture, and the clever strategy of all the characters keeps the interest of the spectuators at the highest point.

The Bank Cashier is another story of a western character, and displays among its many attractions the capture of two bank robbers who are escenting by autemobiles.

ture of two bank robbers who are es-caping by automobiles. The police, in automobiles also, succeed in overtak-ing them, and the police board the escaping car while in motion and capture the men.

POETRY

A white-haired man—a chimney now.
With failing sight, yet earnest look;
On snowy hair the light shines clear;
Into the eyes a glance of fear;
A moment thus—then gone, and now
Sweet peace returns to lip and brow.
The firelight shows a face transformed;
in eyes grown dim a new light burns.
A lad again by the old hearth-store.
With years of hardship backward flown.
And mother's hand on tumbled hair,
Teaching the while life's leasons there;
"Not wealth for thee, dear son, I pray.
But honest living day by day;
To walk the path that leads to light,
To face the wrong, to sid the right,
To raise the fallen when yet can;
Thy duty do to God and man."
The years were gone—an old man he.
The vision held—the mists would fee,
And life beyond would the sequei be.
The shades of evening fell apace,
The stanks of evening fell apace,
A passing gleam on the white face lay,
And sight was clear at the close of day.
Now other eyes in the fire shall look.

day.

Now other eyes in the fire shall look.

New visions see in the chimney nook.

GENTS AND LADIES.

She was a stylish Sales-Ledee,
A Night-Watch-Gentieman was be;
He loved and asked if she'd agree
A Clergy-Gentieman to see,
And though she blushed a rosy red,
She quickly fixed the day to wed.
The wedding was a swell affair,
For there were no plain people there;
To be "en regie" was their aim,
So only gents and ladies came—
The Cashier-Lady of the store,
The gentleman who walks the floor.
The blevator-Gentleman,
The Scrub-Lady—and so it ran.
And then, when came the parting time,
Cab-Gentlemen with two sublime
Real Lady-Horses, anowy white, Whirled Bride and Groom into the night;

Were handled by a Baggage-Gent.

—T. A. Daly, in the New York Eving Mail. THE CANDIDATE.

I used to have opinions
And send them out galore;
But that was only
When I could see before.

Now I'm thinking early
And also working late.
I'm in favor of good roads.
'Cause I'm a running candidate.

English papers announced that on August 28 Sheffield millers decided to increase the price of flour ia. (24 1-3 cents) per bag of 280 pounds. This advance is due to a deficiency of home-grown wheat, owing to rains. Usually about 30 per cent of English grain is used at this time of the year in order to keep up supplies until the new crops of American and Russian wheat are received in October and November, but at present English wheat is so soft, owing to the rains, that it is unfit for milling, and will have to be stacked and dried.
